

ARTICLE APPEARED IN PAGE 41-HUSA TODAY
3 September 1987

FILE ONLY

CAPITAL LINE

PLUGGING THOSE LEAKS: The chief of the National Security Agency, Lt. Gen. William Odom, says he's all for the government prosecuting news organizations that reveal intelligence secrets. In an interview in today's Washington Post, Odom said he's asked for prosecution under a 1950 law that prohibits disclosures of "communications intelligence." However, he said he's had no luck getting the Justice Department to go along with him.